

National Endowment for Democracy
Supporting freedom around the world

CENTER FOR TRANSATLANTIC RELATIONS

The Center for Transatlantic Relations (CTR) at the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies Johns Hopkins University

and

National Endowment for Democracy (NED)

Invites you to the discussion on

Wednesday, December 14, 2011

2:00–3:30 pm

Room 500

1717 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20036

“INCOMPLETE SECURITY SECTOR REFORM IN SERBIA: LESSONS FOR DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION”

with

Jelena Milić

Director, Center for Euro-Atlantic Studies,
Belgrade, Serbia

Comments by

Daniel Serwer

Senior Fellow, Center for Transatlantic Relations

Vedran Džihic, Moderator

Senior Fellow, Center for Transatlantic Relations

Jelena Milić, director of the Center for Euro-Atlantic Studies, will give an insight into the problems of the security reform in Serbia since the time of the Milosevic regime and democratic changes in 2000 until today. She will discuss the importance of transitional justice for security sector reforms as well as the consequences of current gaps and problems in the reform for Serbia. As the security sector reform is critical for the success of all post-conflict and democratization efforts the event will outline possible “lessons learned” for democratic transition of regions like North Africa. Finally, Jelena Milić will elaborate on the implications of the recent European Council’s decision on Serbian EU-candidacy bid.

RSVP to Center for Transatlantic Relations: transatlanticrsvp@jhu.edu